At Singing Hills Elementary, you'll find small class sizes and a nurturing learning environment. Teachers are passionate about meeting the needs of each individual child and helping each student succeed.

Our students begin each day by interacting and engaging with their teacher and classmates. This approach builds community and helps students start the school day ready to focus and learn.

Reading and comprehension are foundational building blocks for life-long learning. We actively monitor student growth in these areas and provide extra support and instruction for students when needed to help them flourish.

Students have access to technology including Chromebooks, a STEM lab and coding instruction from kindergarten through 5th grade. Students can participate in a variety of after-school clubs and activities including robotics, choir and art. On Thursday late-start days, we offer before-school clubs such as fitness, technology, foreign language and chess.

Our parent community is active, supportive and an integral component of Singing Hills. They provide students, teachers and one another with support and encouragement.
